THE NEWS.

By latest advices from Savannah we are informed how it came to pass that Hardee and his forces escaped. It was a small and momentous hole in the "chivalry." Sherman has already moved on Augusta, and we may confidently expect to hear of its capture ere long; after which South Carolina is to receive due attention.

From Thomas we have a gratifying rumor that he has come up with Hardee's shattered forces north of the Tennessee, and will compel him to surrender or give battle.

Our dispatches this afternoon bring the news of the withdrawal of the Wilmington expedition from before that place. Mr. Brockbridge has not been able to save his own bacon nor that of the other rebels, having lost the salt works in Southwestern Virginia.

Letter from Col. Britton.

Col. Britton, writing to his wife from near Franklin, Tenn., on the 18th inst., refutes the story of his being wounded, as will be seen by the following extracts which we are permitted to make from his letter:

I am safe: I have been through both of the great battles of Nashville, but many poor fellows have fallen among them. I am safe, who was killed in the second day's battle, after all the enemy's works had been carried and the entire rebel army was in perfect rout. We were all pressing forward gathering up prisoners by hundreds. I am safe, who was killed while securing a large squad of prisoners. I was with him when he breathed his last; he never spoke after being hit. The bullet passed through his left wrist and entered his left breast, taking effect in the region of the heart. He died surrounded by hundreds of his admirers, and fell in front of the entire army. He had his horse killed in the early part of the day and at the time of his receiving his fatal blow he was rejoicing with us all in the great victory we had accomplished. His death just at that time caused a great sensation in the brigade. Many shed tears when the brave fellow fell. We had in the regiment fifty-seven men killed and wounded and twenty-two that have not been seen since, making a loss of seventy-nine men. We captured more men than we had in the regiment and took two full batteries of artillery and two stand of colors. Capt. Kennedy, Lieut. Fellows and Greenman are wounded, and I have but three officers left in the regiment.

The Nashville papers all have me wounded, but I am safe, a bullet just touched my ear but did me no harm. We are in pursuit of the rebel army and may have another battle with them yet. We are constantly picking up prisoners.

POSTAL MONEY-ORDER SYSTEM.

The Washington, Chronicle says that returns from all the designated post offices show that during November, the first month of this important system, no less than $115,000 were transmitted under its direction. This shows that the system is a success, and when it is extended to the minor offices throughout the country, the result will doubtless be much more gratifying. It is certainly one of the most economical, and safe and convenient means of transmitting money yet introduced.

BLOCKADE RUNNERS AFRAID OF MUTINY.

The Augusta Constitutionalist of the 14th publishes a private letter from Nassau, which says:

"The opinion prevails that, during the winter, the blockade runners will have more to fear from the enemies in their crews than from the blockading fleet. There are hundreds of Yankees here; and it is a settled plan to capture vessels by attacking them at sea. An attempt was thus made to capture the ship, which failed, and eight of the crew are now in irons—one of them commissioned as a master's mate. Owing to the dubious character of the Yankee neutrality, these minions of the English government will escape punishment."

FROM SHERMAN'S COMMAND.

Fort Monroe, Dec. 26.—The steamer California arrived here at a late hour last evening. In 58 hours from Fort Pulaski, bringing important dispatches from Sherman, and glorious confirmatory intelligence of the capture of Savannah on the 21st inst. On the 20th, Sherman having nearly completed the investment of the city, and captured Fort Leo and several other minor outworks in the immediate vicinity of the principal entrenchments surrounding the town; and placing his siege batteries in such close proximity to the rebel lines as to command effectively every position held by the forces under command of Hardee, sent a summons by flag of truce, to the effect that if the place was not surrendered in a certain time, a bombardment and assault would at once commence. To this summons the rebel General sent back a reply that as his communications were cut off, and his men fully supplied with subsistence and stores of every kind, he was enabled to withstand a long siege, and was determined to hold the city to the very last moment, and defend the citizens and property which had been placed under his protection until his forces were overpowered and compelled to surrender.

Every preparation had been made by Sherman to assault the rebel position the next day, but when the morning of the 21st dawned, it was ascertained that the enemy had evacuated their entrenchments. Several regiments of infantry were immediately advanced, and took possession of them, and shortly afterwards Sherman entered the city at the head of his body guard, and received from the hands of a deputation of citizens, the surrender of the place.

It appears that Gen. Hardee on the night of the 20th, seeing the impossibility of holding the city, and hearing that the only means of escape left open across the Savannah was likely to be cut off at any moment, determined to avail himself of this route for his retreat. His troops immediately set to work to partially destroy the city, and shortly afterwards Sherman entered the city at the head of his body guard, and received from the hands of a deputation of citizens, the surrender of the place.

Major Gen. D. W. Hallett, Chief of Staff.

I have received the following dispatch from Gen. Wilson:

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY CORPS, NEW YORK, Dec. 26.

There seems to be little doubt that the rebels have gone to Bainbridge, eight miles above Florence, leaving a flank movement from Stevenson, Ala. Two corps of Stuart's and Lee's army are on the road to Lexington. Cheat-ham went toward Lawrenceburg, striking the old military road eight miles below Lawrenceburg. The people say the rebels are suffering immensely. Buford's wound is said to be quite severe. A Mr. Goates says the Colonel commanding the pontoon transportation told him he was going to Bainbridge, and left here on Thursday morning. Cheat-ham's ammunition transportation of 15 or 20 wagons was abandoned here. The mules were put in to help the pontoons along.

General Lee was severely wounded in the fight at Nashville. His corps is now commanded by Stevenson. The rebels have lost eighteen Generals killed, wounded and captured, since they started North. They acknowledge 68 pieces of artillery lost. (Signed) J. H. WILSON.

Brevet Major General.

A dispatch dated six p.m., 25th inst., states that in passing the enemy's line, Hardee's brigade came upon the enemy's infantry, strongly posted in rail houses, works, and closed in on them, that in being compelled to fall back, the loss of one gun was involved. The position was, however, taken ten minutes afterwards, but the enemy had run the gun off. The rebel force was eight brigades of 500 or 600 men each.

Gen. Wood, commanding the 4th corps, is in support of Gen. Wilson, and both will continue the pursuit zealously.

I have heard from Steadman to-day. He disembarked his troops from the cars at Lewisville Creek, seven miles from Decatur, and was marching on that place at seven a.m. to-day.
